WAITING.

(By John Burroughs.)
Serene I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind, or tide, or sea,
I have no more 'gainst time or fate,
For lo! my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste, I make delays,
For what avail this eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways,
And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me,
No wind can drive my bark astray,
Nor change the life of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it has sown,
And garner up its fruit of tears.

The waters know their own, and draw
The brooks that spring in yonder heights,
So flows the good with equal law,
Unto the soul of pure delight.

The stars come nightly to the sky,
The tidal wave unto the sea,
Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
Can keep my own away from me!

MAUREN.

(By John Todhunter.)
O, you plant the pain in my heart with your wistful eyes,
Girl of my choice, Maureen!
Will you drive me mad for the kisses
Your shy, sweet mouth denies,
Maureen?

Like a walking ghost I am, and no words to woo,
While rose of the west, Maureen?
For it's pale you are, and the fear
That's on you is over me, too,
Maureen!

Sure it's one complaint that's on us,
Ashore, this day;
Bride of my dreams, Maureen!
The smart of the bee that stung us
His honey must cure, they say,
Maureen!

I'll coax the light to your eyes, and
The rose to your face,
Maureen, my own Maureen!
When I feel the warmth of your breast,
And your nest is my arm's embrace,
Maureen!

O, where was the King of the World
The day—only me?
My one true love, Maureen!
And you the Queen with me there, and
Your throne in my heart, Maureen,
Maureen!

Comfort can be enjoyed only by those whose money affairs cause no worry. To be "comfortably rich" is an ideal condition, enjoyed by few, and yet within the reach of all. A steady income from money invested in safe securities is a source of comfort and pleasure. When that income is sufficient to live on, the possessor is as rich as any one can possibly be. There is no need then to work or worry, and there is time for the higher aims and pleasures of life. Happily, too, such investments are in the long run more profitable than speculations. Our first mortgage securities, netting 6 per cent per annum, are the safest and best investments in the world. The investor holds the security and we do the work. Rome and Europe.
For those who have time and a little money, why not consider the coming pilgrimage to Rome, and tour to the continent and British Isles, leaving July 7? Such a trip is preferable to, and cheaper than, lounging aimlessly by the seaside or on mountain hotel porches. One gets something tangible for one's money. Send for particulars: McGurran's Catholic Tours, 157 Broadway, New York.

Mr. McGurran, business manager of last year's pilgrimage to Rome, etc., is preparing to take another party this year, leaving July 7. They will be accompanied by a spiritual director and are assured of an audience with the Holy Father.

The Wonder Millinery company in New York is located at 33 Main street. The display of Easter goods is attractive and up-to-date. Visit before you purchase. To see is to be convinced.

PROFUSE DECORATIONS

Committee on President's Reception Intends to Break All Records.

There is not a sufficient quantity of national colored bunting and flags in Salt Lake today to decorate the city as it will be adorned when President Roosevelt visits Zion next month, and the stores have ordered large supplies by telegraph. That fact was brought out at the meeting yesterday afternoon of the decorations committee, which met in the city council chamber at 4 o'clock. Before that time the committee had arranged for the purchase of a large quantity of bunting and flags to be used in the decoration of the city.

A MONSTER TUNNEL.

Time Has Wrought Changes in the Cave of the Winds.

(Philadelphia Record.)

Ever since it was discovered, in the summer of 1834, the Cave of the Winds at Niagara Falls has been a strange and remarkable attraction for the many visitors to that scenic point. It has enjoyed a rare patronage, and since 1886 has been under the management of George W. Wright. As a scenic point it has excited the envy of Canadians, who, some years ago, excavated a hole through the rock extending just back of the stream that poured over the precipice of the famous Horseshoe fall. The recent diversion of water on the Canadian side by the piles of excavated rock from the tunnel and wheel-pit, as well as the changes wrought by time, has so transformed the Canadian side, at the Horseshoe, that the old tunnel, as a scenic point, is no longer useful, and it is proposed to dig another longer and bigger tunnel that will extend through the rock to a point back of the Horseshoe fall. The recent diversion of water on the Canadian side by the piles of excavated rock from the tunnel and wheel-pit, as well as the changes wrought by time, has so transformed the Canadian side, at the Horseshoe, that the old tunnel, as a scenic point, is no longer useful, and it is proposed to dig another longer and bigger tunnel that will extend through the rock to a point back of the Horseshoe fall.

In doing this a shaft 125 feet deep will be sunk south of the old tunnel, and from the bottom of this shaft a tunnel seven by nine feet will be run out and back of the Horseshoe fall. The fall is 165 feet high the point of view at the face of the precipice behind the sheet of water will be about 100 feet above the water of the lower river.

The tunnel will
